When children gather in delight,
To fill the air with bubbles bright,
Of this let parents all be sure—
The soap they use is good and pure,
For, common grease in some we find
With evil mixtures well combined
That soon with burning sores will tell
On lips and tongue, and gums as well.

Let Ivory Soap, that's made with care
Of purest oils and essence rare,
Be used by those who bubbles blow
And greatest pleasure will they know,
For brighter bubbles will be seen
Where soap is pure and fresh and clean,
While not a fear need cross the mind
Of bad results of any kind.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory'," they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

HILL AMONG THE HOOSIERS.

His Reception One of the Most Enthusiastic on Record.

Governor Hill whirled through Indiana amid a cyclone of enthusiasm. The roads were well nigh impassable the first day, but that did not deter the Hoosiers from assembling at every station from Cincinnati to Indianapolis, from turning out and cheering him on his way. Old men in hundreds were on hand in the drenching rain and gave the governor an impression of old time Democratic enthusiasm that he is not likely to forget.

The first demonstration occurred at Lawrenceburg, just over the state-line, in Congressman Holman's district, where over 1,000 workmen rushed to the track and gave three cheers for the popular governor of the greatest state in the Union. The governor was breakfasting at the time, but he stepped to the rear platform and waived his acknowledgments. At Aurora, twenty-five miles from Cincinnati, a similar demonstration occurred. At North Vernon the people were out in force and cries were made for a speech. The governor good naturedly complied. When he stepped to the platform he was cheered to the echo.

"I am sorry, my friends, said he, that this weather is so inclement, but I presume it is one of the consequences of a high protective tariff. I see that Mr. Blaine in his public speeches proclaims that we owe everything to the tariff, and I presume this storm comes in under the category."

At Seymour the party was joined by Governor Gray, of Indiana. The meeting between the governors of the two great doubtful states was interesting. Governor Gray is a fine looking man, with a dignified presence. It was their first meeting. They shook hands cordially, sat down together and questioned each other eagerly about the chances of the national ticket in their respective states. Governor Gray was very much gratified with Governor Hill's report from New York. He was a little concerned about the triangular fight in New York city and was curious to know Governor Hill's opinion as to the result. Governor Hill assured him that the Democrats of the country need have no fear as to the consequences of the Democratic split in New York city, promising him that the Democratic vote there would be drawn out to its full quota. Governor Gray said the Democrats in Indiana were just as much concerned for the result in New York as he was convinced the Democrats in New York were concerned about the result in Indiana. Governor Gray said the changes in the situation in his state in the last ten days were such as to give the Democrats every confidence of putting Indiana in the column for Cleveland and Thurman.

When the train reached Mitchell a great crowd had gathered at the station. There was some little delay in getting Governor Hill out of his car. The Hoosier crowd allowed their enthusiasm to get ahead of them and could hardly be restrained from jumping aboard and dragging out Governor Hill by sheer force. When he and Governor Gray appeared together a tumultuous yell broke forth that lasted several minutes. The carriage that was to convey Governor Hill was swathed in red, white and blue. The horses bore long streamers, and the spokes and hubs of the wheels were done up in red, white and blue. So great was the tumult that the span of white horses became very obstreperous and plunged in a manner rather unpleasant. A procession was formed, which proceeded to Chick's Wood, where the speeches were to be delivered.

The grove covers about forty acres. Parked in it were innumerable caravansaries belonging to farmers who had driven in from six to fifteen miles. Horses were tied to trees and fences, and in the hollow where the grand stand was erected were congregated about five thousand people. Hard by the platform was a wagon of mighty proportions drawn by twenty snow white horses. In the wagon were fifty young girls dressed in red caps, blue bodices and white skirts. Hundreds of women wore bandanna hats and many of them bandanna skirts.

It was a proud moment in the history of Mitchell when Governor Hill and Governor Gray, with eloquent George Raines, Judge Holman and Gen. Porter, our adjutant general, came into the grounds. Mitchell had never before seen together two such Democratic governors, possible candidates for the presidency a year ago, probable candidates for the presidency and vice presidency four years from now.

"We would have had 40,000 people here today," said Judge Holman, "if we had had pleasant weather," but in spite of it all the gathering was remarkable.

After the speeches the party was driven back to the special train for Seymour. Governor Gray and Judge Holman accompanied Governor Hill. When they reached Seymour the vicinity of the station was packed with a surging mass of humanity. Governor Gray escorted Governor Hill to Jordan's hotel, where Governor Hill made an address from the balcony in the pouring rain. Cheers followed every sentence.

The party arrived at Indianapolis at 8 o'clock. Over 5,000 ardent Democrats were in the vicinity of the station, and when the two governors appeared a mighty cheer went up from 5,000 throats as if from one. An aisle was cleared through the crowd for the two governors, who were followed by Judge Holman, Gen. Porter, Col. McEwan, Mr. Whitney, Secretary of State Cook, The World's special correspondent, Col. Jim Jones, Mr. Julian Ralph, Senator Raines and Dr. Hunter. The famous Hendricks club escorted the party to Tomlinson's hall. The vicinity of the hall was jammed, but the crowd cheerily opened a way for the illustrious leaders. When they reached the stage they found nearly 6,000 people in the hall waiting for them.

Governor Gray introduced Governor Hill in dead silence, but the moment he arose a yell was raised that was prolonged nine minutes' by the watch. Men raised their high white hats on sticks and gave themselves up to yells. Hundreds of ladies waved bandannas and shouted till their throats were parched.—Indiana Cor. New York World.

Harrison Well Paid.

It is quite clear that Harrison's services against the strikers in 1877 cannot be considered disinterested, even by his most ardent admirers. He received, it appears, $1,000 for one week's service, besides pay as captain of infantry at the rate of $150 per month. He also, as the records show, profited to the extent of $21,000 by his services as railroad receiver. No wonder he was on the side of the wealthy companies and against their dollar a day men.—New York Star.

Not Young Tip's Year.

In 1836, when old Tippecanoe first ran for the presidency against Van Buren, he was overwhelmingly defeated. Following the family precedent, this is not young Tip's year.—Philadelphia Record.

Very Distinguished Paupers?

Senator Teller has ventured to assert in the Senate that "all men who control immense wealth in this country are in full sympathy with the effort to repeat the Democratic administration." He probably classes as paupers such distinguished leaders of the Republican party as Andrew Carnegie, Leland Stanford, C. P. Huntington, D. O. Mills, William Walter Phelps, Phil Armour, Joseph Wharton, John I. Blair and the Vanderbilts.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

Pagan Bob Ruled Out.

Perhaps Bob Ingersoll will be willing to contribute a lock of his new whiskers to the Republican cause, as he is not allowed to interpret the platform.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Nobody goes to hear the senators talk on the tariff. Indeed, the American people are extremely weary of the senate.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A College Course.

In the United States one man in every 200 takes a college course; in England, one in every 500; in Scotland, one in every 600; in Germany, one in every 212.

"N. B.: THIS IS SARKASSUM."

Typical Republican Friends of the Workingman.

This is an educational campaign, indeed, not only as relates to the tariff for the protection of monopolists, but in a variety of ways. The wage earner, to whom arguments are being addressed by both parties, is learning a number of things hitherto unsuspected by him as having any existence in the universe.

He is learning, for the first time in his life, that his employer's sole object and ambition in life is to pay him high wages. Heretofore he has been compelled to organize, to make "scales" and to threaten strikes in order to make his employer pay him living compensation. Now the employer is urging him to vote the Republican ticket, in order to enable the good man to pay high wages.

That his interests and his employer's ought to be one he has known for some time, but not until now has he discovered that they are. To tell the truth, however, he is so suspicious of his employer's good intentions toward him that he is convinced that he can most likely benefit himself by doing the very reverse of what his employer asks of him. If the success of the Democratic ticket really involved low wages, as the employer tells him it must, he knows that the employer would be for it, not against it. He has learned that much, any way.

Now, it has seemed clever to the astute persons who are conducting the Republican campaign, to send out to men who employ numerous workmen envelopes covered with printed arguments in favor of the Republican candidates, in which to pay off their hands. The employers in large numbers have adopted this cheap and easy method of preaching the gospel of monopolies. The amount of anxiety exhibited for the "working classes" by these gentlemen, measured by the fervor of their appeals to vote against Democracy, would touch the heart of the Whitechapel murderer if he could be brought to contemplate it aright. It is so genuine, so sincere, so consistent with the general conduct of these gentry that nobody can reasonably affect to doubt it.

For example, there is the firm of Tim Walerstein & Co., of Troy, in this state, which manufactures shirts, collars and cuffs on a large scale. It is not known precisely how much it pays its sewing women for a shirt, but since trousers are made at the rate of 10 cents a dozen in New York we are not inclined to believe that shirt making is very much more profitable in Troy. However that may be, the firm is deeply concerned lest the "Democratic tariff" of 42 per cent. should reduce the princely wages of its shirt makers, and is putting forth every effort to have that pauperizing reduction of 5 per cent. repudiated. That is thoughtful; it ought to be acknowledged gratefully. But since there is no way of protecting the laundry workers of the United States against the pauper laundresses of Europe, why do not Messrs. Walerstein & Co. employ free labor to starch and iron their shirts, collars and cuffs? If they are so profoundly interested in the welfare of the industrial masses why do they send their goods to the Sing Sing state prison to be done up?

Perhaps they thought that this little business of theirs would not be found out; that they can pose as devoted friends of the American workingman and still get their work done at minimum prices by convicts without being called on for an explanation. But they cannot. Their miserable hypocrisy is engraved for all time on the archives of the state, in memoranda summed up in the following portentous statement:

Tim Walerstein & Co., to the State of New York,

To laundry work in State Prison at Sing Sing, from Nov. 1886 to July 1888 ..... $78,292

If these gentlemen really love the American workingman as they profess to do, why did they not pay out this bill of $78,292 for laundry work to free and honest American workingmen and working women? The answer is that these gentlemen, like the knaves of the warehouse, steel, coal, sugar and other trusts, hate the American workingman and are always on the lookout to pilfer and deceive him. Their solicitude for his welfare is a fraud. And the wage earner has at last learned that fact.—Brooklyn Citizen.

Vast Increase in Brooklyn Registration.

The Democracy ought to have nothing to fear from the immense increment of suffrage. The cause of Democracy is the cause of the people. It is a cause which, when rightly understood, commends itself to every man whose brain is the seat of thought and whose hands are the forces of his self support. The national administration has given to the country the fact and example of good government. The success of such a good cause in the nation is bound up in the success of the Democracy in the state of New York. In the main, the executive government of this state has been well administered in Democratic hands. Mistakes have been made and are admitted. The mistakes will be rectified, if the party be reintrusted with power. The Democracy always acknowledges, in the long run, the demands of its reform elements. Locally, the county offices are but large partisan rewards, for which the presentation of party favorites is inevitable. The city offices are places of business administration which the present incumbents have well-filled.—Brooklyn Eagle.

They Are at It All Around.

Gen. Hovey, Republican candidate for governor of Indiana, has been caught sending personal letters and newspapers, in violation of the law, under his congressional frank. The party of great moral ideas appears to have fallen from its high estate all along the line.

Among the articles Gen. Hovey is franking, in violation of the law, to the people of Indiana is a card bearing the British flag and forged sentiments attributed to English newspapers. Gen. Hovey must have a fine, large idea of the intelligence of the voters and the governorship of the state of Indiana.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Old Flapdoodle.

Mr. Blaine is ladling out to his western audiences the same sort of "food for fools" with which he served them on his disastrous stumping tour four years ago.

Think of a man who has been posed by his admirers as "the greatest living statesman," and who is—or was—a really brilliant political leader, reciting to the voters of the west statistics from the census showing the remarkable growth of their section in population and the increase of its railroads, and claiming it all as due to a system of taxation!

As well attribute the crops to frost as prosperity to taxes.

What claims to high patriotism has a politician who subordinates the attractiveness and the influence of our free institutions and the boundless natural resources of our broad and glorious republic to a make shift revenue system, or to any partisan device or policy whatsoever?

Mr. Blaine is talking flapdoodle.—New York World.

Familiar with False Counts.

The name of Rutherford B. Hayes seldom appears in the present campaign, but The Chicago Herald remembers him to the following extent:

"Ex-President Hayes thinks that every northern state will go Republican and that West Virginia will give a large majority for Harrison. Rutherford's prominent connection with the poultry business should have taught him the folly of counting chickens before they are hatched."

She Wouldn't Believe It.

A drummer who has been to the Cincinnati centennial reports that he saw the Kansas corn towering above that of the other states, and he heard an old lady remark as she gazed at it: "You needn't tell me that corn grew that tall in one year. There's two or three years' growth there."—Coffeyville (Kan.) Sun.

Mr. Blaine "could not get justice in Indiana"—no more than in 1884. Gen. Hovey declined to meet or speak with him.

New York City's Vote.

The Republican calculation seems to be something like this: The total vote of New York city will be on Nov. 6 about 250,000. Allowing 10,000 of this for the vote of the Labor and Prohibition candidates, and the Republicans 100,000, there will remain 140,000 for the Democrats. That would make Cleveland's plurality in New York city only 40,000, or, after adding 10,000 which the Republican managers in Brooklyn call the maximum plurality against them in Kings, would show a Cleveland plurality of but 50,000 to be overcome by the Republicans in the other fifty-eight counties of the state. In 1884, these same counties came within 1,100 of overcoming a Democratic plurality of 58,798 in New York and Kings.

Unfortunately for the Republicans, the Democrats have succeeded during the last four years in raising their plurality in New York and Kings from 46,749 in 1883 to 62,271 in 1887. If the plurality of 1888 is to exceed that of 1887 by just as much as that of 1884 exceeded 1883, there will be a Cleveland plurality of 74,000 to be overcome by the other fifty-eight counties of the state. This, at least, is a calculation based on the law of "normal increases," while the other is not.—New York Epoch.

SPECIMEN PORTRAITS.

Victims and Beneficiaries of Republican Legislation.

This is the house a farmer built, using boards taxed $2 a thousand feet for the benefit of the lumber barons, glass taxed 30 per cent. for the benefit of the glass trust, paint taxed 25 per cent., nails taxed 40 per cent., and other taxed articles too tedious to mention.

And this is the banker who holds the mortgage on that farmer, for whose benefit the Republicans abolished the tax on bank checks and commercial paper.

This is the laborer whose dinner pail is taxed 35 per cent., his flannel shirt 90 per cent., his cheap vest 40 per cent., his trousers 55 per cent. and everything that it is his in like proportion.

And this is the millionaire whose income tax was abolished by the Republican party.

This is the railroad laborer who just now has a controversy with Capt. Ben Harrison, of the militia of 1877.

And this is the railroad king for whom the Republicans abolished taxes on receipts and all special taxes tending to prevent the concentration of wealth.

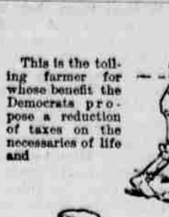
This is the quinine manufacturer for whom the Republican party imposed a heavy tax on that drug, and who wept tears as big as huckleberries over the "ruin he and his workmen must suffer" if it was taken off.

And this is the billous settler in the "ague belt," as he was before the Democrats in congress abolished the quinine tax, reducing the price of that drug 50 per cent. without reducing wages a penny.

This is the poor sewing woman in the city garret, who is "protected against the pauper labor of Europe" by a tax on her sewing machine of 45 per cent., on her thread 60 per cent, on her needles 25 per cent., on her scissors 45 per cent., on her cheap bed linen 42 per cent., on her blanket 80 per cent., on her iron bedstead 50 per cent., on her soap 20 per cent., on many other necessaries from 10 to 80 per cent., and on her only source of consolation and hope, the Bible, 20 per cent.

And this is the boss of the trust which, as a "purely private affair," has lately raised the price of her coal (taxed 15 per cent.), and for whose benefit the Republican senate now proposes to reduce the tax on luxuries and raise that on necessaries.

This is the bummer for whom McKinley & Co., authors of the Republican platform, propose to have untaxed whisky in the interest of the G. O. P.



This is the tolling farmer for whose benefit the Democrats propose a reduction of taxes on the necessaries of life and

This is the man who wrote that abolishing the Federal whisky tax would "destroy high license at once in all states."

This is a man called by the same name, now advocating the McKinley platform.

And lastly, this is the refined and scholarly Anna, who once declaimed for freedom for the slave and now denounces low taxes for freemen as the device of slaveholders; who politely calls the President a "hangman" and an "emissary of the devil in hell," and thinks the country would be ruined if low taxes should win.

Where Are the Big Republicans?

Said a very hard worker in the Democratic cause to an equally hard worker in the Republican cause, both being good friends, and just then standing before the Hoffman house cafe bar:

"I say, Jack, what is the matter with all the big guns of your party? None of them have taken any special interest in the campaign and the only man you have out of any real prominence is Jim Blaine."

"Yes, you are right. I have wondered myself. Everything has gone awry since the Chicago nomination. Blessed if I didn't think when we started that we were going to whip you fellows, but I have about given it up. The main props have taken no interest, and although we may keep up a semblance of enthusiasm, I feel discouraged myself," replied the Republican.

An examination of the field shows the Democrat's view to be true. While Democratic senators have evinced their fealty to party and principle by most earnest labor, the Republican senators and their principal spouters have sulked in their tents. If they have opened their mouths once they have deemed that amply sufficient. It may well be asked, just on the closing days of election, "Where, oh, where is the judicial Edmunds?" Four years ago he would not speak for Blaine. Does he believe even now that Harrison is only a figurehead for the "Uncrowned King?"

But while the great Blaine himself is scouting over trusts in Indiana where are his co-laborers, Eugene Hale and Fryé? Where is the screw that is loose there? And, great guns and artillery, where is the judge advocate of the Kansas militia, who tried chicken thieves in '63, during the war, and who has blasphemed the memories of McClellan and Hancock since, the magniloquent Ingalls. And the 250 words to the sentence William M. Evarts, the pride of the Republicans, to what section of the unknown globe has he emigrated during this campaign? The ghosts of all the past are yelling for the whereabouts of Col. Bob Ingersoll.

It does seem singular to Democrats, and it must strike the Republican mind much more forcibly, that the great talent of the G. O. P. has lain dormant during this battle, and that only second rate and fourth rate speakers have been sent out. It is a mighty poor view of the situation for these Republicans.

With only Blaine in the field, it makes a very sorry appearance. And in reference to this particular individual, an old Stalwart, of the spirit of Roscoe Conkling stripe, exclaimed: "It would have been a good thing if the Chinese wall he likes so well had been built in the center of the Atlantic before Blaine got back." This is a very common exclamation among the old Stalwarts. The feeling against Blaine is just as intense today as it was four years ago, and the fear that Blaine is likely to be at the head of Harrison's government, in the event of the latter's election, will force many of them into the Democratic camp in the present campaign.—Brooklyn Citizen.

The President's Consistency.

The enemies of the president speak of his retaliation message as inconsistent with his previous attitude. It was nothing of the sort. To have suggested retaliation while a treaty was pending for the settlement of the fisheries dispute would have been indefensible. When the treaty was rejected by the senate the president immediately turned to the only alternative that was left. But in his message the president took occasion to say that he still believed the treaty to be a basis of settlement fair and just for both countries. Whatever may be his faults, Mr. Cleveland is not a trimmer.—New York World.

Hale's Sudden Conversion.

We publish a Republican campaign document in the shape of a report made to the senate by Mr. Hale relative to civil service reform. The recently assumed and extreme affection of Mr. Hale for reform in the administration of the government ill accords with his former indorsement of Jay Hubbell's circulars, that were issued for the purpose of "frying the fat" out of government employes for the enlargement of the corruption fund of the Republican party.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Dropped the Blaine Banners.

Many young Wall street clerks who marched under the Blaine banners four years ago have their names enrolled this year among the members of the Stock Exchange Cleveland and Thurman club.—New York World.

Better Than in 1884.

In the last campaign the Cleveland and Hendricks Wholesale Dry Goods club had 7,300 members. The Cleveland and Thurman club already has that number on its rolls, and officers of the club predict that the membership will exceed 10,000 before the campaign closes. The club has a branch at 94 Spring street.—New York Sun.

Even Blaine Is Being Educated.

Mr. James G. Blaine has at last discovered that trusts are not by any means the harmless affairs which he declared them to be a few weeks ago, when, fresh from the hospitalities of Carnegie and the splendors of Cluny Castle, he put himself at the head of the party whose members speak of him as "the greatest combination of heart and brain in the world," and "the object of our (their) undying affection." He is now persuaded that some of them ought to be dealt with by the government, and that President Cleveland was not so much in error after all in denouncing them as conspiracies against the people. This is a change of mind which shows what can be done in the course of an educational campaign.

It is interesting to note the stages through which Mr. Blaine's mind has passed in its progress toward truth on this question. First off, it will be remembered, he scoffed at the president and the Democracy for finding fault with trusts and lightly dismissed them from further notice as private affairs. That this would not do he learned as soon as it was shown to him that the effect of the trusts was to increase the cost of living and diminish wages. He then favored us with the announcement that, though trusts might be objected to, still they were not in any degree due to the so called protective tariff, and, in proof of this, told an astonished world that England was also afflicted by similar organizations. It was something gained to have the great man admit that they were not good things, even if he persisted in ignoring the cause of them.

For a time Mr. Blaine sought to occupy middle ground. He acknowledged implicitly that trusts were evils, and that toleration of them in other countries was not an adequate reason for tolerating them here, since the European addiction to aristocracies and standing armies has never been deemed a reason for setting up a royal family and a vast military establishment in the United States, but contended that the state governments and not the Federal authority ought to correct them. That he could not long adhere to this position was clear enough to every person capable of consistent thought.

In the town of Goshen, Ind., he practically abandoned all his previous pleas and undertook to show not as in the past that trusts were private affairs with which the federal government had nothing to do, or which ought to be left to the state governments, but were evils for which Democrats were largely responsible. This, the reader perceives, changes the whole character of the discussion. The question now is not whether trusts are evils, but who is to blame for perpetuating them. At last Mr. Blaine is in accord with the Democracy on the main matter, and differs only in regard to certain facts and persons. He no longer asserts that the crime charged against his client is no crime, but turning round on the accusers he says: "Yes, a crime has been committed, but the guilt is with the plaintiff and not the defendant."

It is now agreed that trusts ought to be suppressed. What the people have to decide is, to which party may the work of suppressing them be committed with most likelihood of having justice done. Shall the commission be given to President Cleveland, who has from the beginning consistently denounced the wrong, or to the representative of Mr. Blaine, who began by telling the country that trusts were harmless, and had no word of censure for them till he learned that the people were resolved to crush them? To this question the average man will be able to render all the answer necessary.—Brooklyn Citizen.

Governor Hill in Indiana.

Governor Hill, on his way to the west, is meeting with enthusiastic receptions and making effective addresses. The vigorous character of his partisan arguments, the representative position as chief magistrate and renominee which he occupies, and the attention which has been concentrated on him both by defense and attacks unite to render him one of the most conspicuous and aggressive objects of the pending canvass. His appearance in Indiana and in Illinois as an orator for the party is a tactical and gallant act, and the reflex influence of it on the cause in New York will be as great as the direct effect of speeches at home by him would be. The intelligence from the interior is that both Governor Hill and Warner Miller address meetings of unusual size and extraordinary enthusiasm. The countrymen will vote en masse this year. The governor stands the wear and tear better than Mr. Miller, who has almost succumbed to a neuralgic attack in the face. The Eagle is at a loss to account for the capacity of Governor Hill to thrive under labors which break down his opponent, except on the hypothesis that as a total abstainer, on a platform for a reasonable excise law, Mr. Hill lives more temperately than the occasional drinker who is running against him as a Methodist Prohibitionist on a platform one part high license and the other part free whisky.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Evolution of Blaine on Trusts.

All the Democratic and independent journals are on a broad grin over Mr. Blaine's "turn-about-and-wheel-about-and-do-jist-so" attitudes anent the trusts issue. The following extract from The Springfield Republican strikes about the average spirit of these comments:

"Mr. Blaine's third speech on trusts establishes a third distinctive idea which he entertains on that subject. First he considered them 'largely private affairs;' next 'largely state affairs,' and now they are peculiarly Democratic affairs. These successive steps in the evolution of an opinion photograph the exigencies of the campaign."

Where Log Cabins Flourish.

A party of American Gentlemen, who had been camping out on an island in the great Lake Nipissing, Canada, last summer, were returning in a sail-boat and were yet seven miles from port when the sun went down, and with it the sailing breeze.

A discouraging situation, truly.

"Never mind, I can row you there inside of two hours," said the guide who had charge of the party, as their murmurs arose.

"Why, man, it is seven miles, there are four of us in this heavy boat—its a big job you undertake," said one.

"No matter, I have done the likes before and can do it again," cheerfully replied the broad-shouldered Irishman, as he stowed away the sail and bent to the oars. He was a splendid oarsman and the boat was soon under

BLOOMSBURG, PA.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1888.

Two miniature railways are to be laid out in Pekin for the pleasure and convenience of the Emperor.

The registration in New York city is something of a surprise. It was concluded Saturday of last week, and the total is 285,857, as against 240,861 in 1888. The natural increase could hardly be more than half as much as shown by the total, and exceptionally quiet campaign the people are all preparing to vote.

Next Tuesday decides the contest. Let every democrat do his full duty and see that every possible vote is polled for Cleveland and Thurman. There is every reason to believe that Cleveland will be triumphantly reelected, and each man should feel that he helped to do it. Vote early, and urge your neighbors to do the same.

What townships will increase their representation in the Democratic convention of the county?

By the latest amendment to the rules the next apportionment of delegates will be based upon the vote given for President on next Tuesday.

Let no district lose any of her strength in the County Convention but work to increase her representation.

Any Democrat who contemplates running for county office in the near future or who expects to vote at delegate elections had better consult his own interest before bolting the ticket.

The rules of the party provide in substance that no person shall be eligible to nomination by a convention who has opposed the Democratic ticket at the next preceding election, and that it is a good cause of challenge against any person offering to vote at a delegate election that he has opposed the Democratic ticket at the last preceding election.

How New York City Will Vote.

The New York World sent out a corps of reporters last week to interview the voters of New York city to give a forecast of how the city would vote. Nearly 5000 interviews were obtained. These interviews were published in each issue of last week's daily World giving the names and addresses of each one. As the reporters would stop everyone they meet, naturally a number would be found who resided in Brooklyn or Jersey city. This will probably account for the reduced vote for Governor. The following is a summary of the interviews:

THE SUMMARY OF INTERVIEWS OBTAINED.

Total interviews	4,814
For Cleveland	2,756
For Harrison	1,436
Changes, Blaine to Cleveland	263
Changes, Cleveland to Harrison	159
First voters, Cleveland	198
First voters, Harrison	96
For Hill	2,657
For Miller	1,611
For Grant	1,568
For Hewitt	1,043
For Erhardt	984
For Coogan	182
Changes from Butler to Cleveland	3
Changes from St. John to Cleveland	9
Changes from St. John to Harrison	7
Changes from Democratic to Cowdrey	2
Changes from Democratic to Fisk	8
Changes from Republican to Fisk	4
Straight Democrats for Coogan	34
Straight Republicans for Coogan	18
Straight Republicans for Hewitt	108
Straight Republicans for Grant	58
Straight Democrats for Erhardt	11

It is remarkable how party organs will distort the truth. The Philadelphia Press of Sunday Oct. 28th in commenting on the result of the interviews says:

THE New York World has interviewed 2938 voters in New York and Brooklyn on the presidency in the last week, perhaps as large and systematic a straw vote test as has ever been carried out by a newspaper. Like all such, it is open to great error, and it is never safe to place much reliance on the conclusions reached by a haphazard poll of this description. But it is noticeable that in this case a poll is made of changes from the vote of the last presidential election. In all the World interviews there are ninety-eight changes from Blaine to Cleveland and 138 from Cleveland to Harrison. For New York this would be a net change of 3400 votes and for the state of 18,700 in favor of Harrison."

The New York World of the same date (Sunday Oct. 28), that should know how many interviews they obtained says as follows:

The canvass was prosecuted with entire impartiality. It included different classes of voters, by nationality and occupation. Our sole desire was to make it as fairly typical of the whole body of voters as it was possible to be. The names and and addresses of all the persons interviewed were included as an evidence of good faith.

The only significance in such a canvass of course lies in the changes, and in the predilections of the new voters. Of 4,814 citizens interviewed, 422, or nearly 10 per cent., will vote differently from what they did four years ago. Of these, 263 are changes from Blaine to Cleveland and 159 from Cleveland to Harrison—an apparent gain of 104 for the Democrats. About 1 in 15 of the total number, or 294, will cast their first vote at this election. Of these, 198 expressed a purpose to vote for Cleveland, against 96 for Harrison.

In the vote for Governor, Hill's majority is relatively just about the same as Cleveland's, indicating that the losses and gains of these candidates about balance each other. In the Mayoralty vote Grant has 563 plurality over Hewitt and 584 over Erhardt in a vote of 3,771—Coogan scoring but 182.

Of course these figures are not conclusive. They are, so far as they go, indicative. While the organs were theorizing and "claiming," THE World went to typical segments of the voters and found out and published their intentions.

How the Press can make such figures as above is hard to understand, unless they selected the interviews of two or three days that were given in their favor.

Thousands Must Lose Their Votes.

NOT ENOUGH POLLING PLACES OWING TO THE BIG REGISTRATION.

The police Commissioners are in a serious dilemma over the heavily increased registration in many sections of N. Y. city. How to poll the entire vote within the legally prescribed hours is a puzzle. They added forty-four election districts this year, making 856, against 812 in 1887; but the addition of voters has been so excessive as to prevent a poll of the vote on election day. In the Seventeenth election district of the Twenty-third Assembly District, 546 names were enrolled during the first three days of registration, and in the Tfirty-second District of the Twenty-second Assembly District, 728 voters were registered, with a strong probability that the grand total will reach 900. This excess exists in all the tenement districts and in the newly built sections of the city.

The law prescribes that the polls shall be kept open ten hours, or from 6 A. M. to 4 P. M. During that time, if voting is carried on without delays, one man can cast his ballot each minute, so that only 600 votes could be received in the ten hours. The heaviest balloting on record was in a Harlem precinct, where 690 ballots were cast, the average not exceeding 500. Allowing the largest possible latitude, in the Twenty third Assembly District referred to above, fully three hundred voters will be disfranchised solely because of an utter inability to receive the ballots within the legal ten hours. It is estimated that at least 10,000 voters will not be able to cast their ballots.

Is Labor True to Labor?

All parties profess fidelity to the interests of labor, but both can't be right, and labor must decide between them, for the votes of the industrial people of the land will surely control the verdict.

The industrial voters are four-fifths of the voters of the country. They pay the taxes; it is their $80,000,000 of needless taxes that are extorted from the people to swell the surplus in the treasury; it is upon them that war taxes upon the necessaries of life fall most heavily, and it is for them to say whether high war taxes shall continue or whether the common needs of all classes shall be cheapened and industry prospered by reduced taxation.

Is labor true to labor? If it is, there will be a startling revolution on the 6th of November. High tariff and other taxes deprive the workingmen of the nation of more than one-third of their earnings; they have driven every American ship from the ocean; they have given nearly our whole commerce to foreign shippers; they have taxed our mills and labor into idleness and given foreign mills and labor a large share of American markets, and they have steadily reduced the wages of American workmen while taxes have been increased by monopoly trusts bred by excessive tariff duties.

How can labor be deceived in such a contest? It is a great battle for the emancipation of American labor; a battle to give our mills and workmen free raw materials to enlarge employment and increase consumption by cheapened necessaries of life; a battle to overflow the trusts and combines which sap the life out of industry; a battle to repeal the taxes not only on raw materials, but also on lumber, salt, tinware and other articles which enter into the daily use of the people, and a battle to give our chief American markets to our own American labor.

Who can justify or excuse tariff taxes of over 47 per cent. long after the necessities of war have ceased? The highest distinctly protective tariffs before the war never exceeded 36 per cent. and the protective duties of the Mills bill are in excess of the highest claims of protectionists before the war. Why is this so? It is so simply because true protection has been departed from, and it has been prostituted to extortion and greed.

Let labor be true to labor. Let it demand free raw materials for our industries, as are given in every protection country of Europe; let it demand the reduction of tariff duties to the standard of full protection of the difference between American and foreign wages, and let it demand that all necessaries of life not produced by a general industry here, shall be absolutely free. Such a tariff is wanted by labor in its battle for labor; such a tariff is the Mills bill, and if labor is true to labor, the nation will decide in favor of its standard of tax reduction by an overwhelming vote.—Times.

The Sackville Letter.

The effort to secure a democratic Burchard in the person of Lord Sackville West, English minister to this country, has proven a flat failure. A person representing himself as a naturalized Englishman wrote to Sackville asking for instructions how to vote for President. To this Sackville replied by letter saying:

"I am in receipt of your letter of the 4th inst, and beg to say that I fully appreciate the difficulty in which you find yourself in casting your vote. You are probably aware that any political party which openly favored the mother country at the present moment would lose popularity, and that the party in power is fully aware of this fact. The party, however, is, I believe, still desirous of maintaining friendly relations with Great Britain, and is still as desirous of settling all questions with Canada, which have been unfortunately reopened since the retraction of the treaty by the Republican majority in the Senate, and by the President's message to which you allude. All allowances must, therefore, be made for the political situation as regards the presidential election thus created. It is, however, impossible to predict the course which President Cleveland may pursue in the matter of retaliation should he be elected; but there is every reason to believe that, while upholding the position he has taken, he will manifest a spirit of conciliation in dealing with the question involved in his message."

Immediately the republican press began a great howl, claiming that this letter proves their allegations that the democratic party is favoring British interests, and that this bears out their charges that the party are "British free-traders."

All this is intended to catch the Irish vote that has slipped away from the Blaine vote of 1884. It bears every indication of having been a put up job by the Republican National Committee, and Sackville West is either in his dotage, and has been imposed upon, or he is a willing tool in the hands of the conspiracy, and wrote the letter intentionally to injure Cleveland's chances of success, for it is said that the most cordial feeling has not existed between them. Sackville's recall has been requested, and it is reported that his successor has already been appointed. Sackville has been notified by the Department of State that his continuance in his present official position in the United States is no longer acceptable to this government.

Quay's Philadelphians Spotted.

Last week 150 live, wide-awake Democrats were sent to New York from Philadelphia for the purpose of identifying Chairman Quay's imported voters. Upon their arrival they were at once placed in communication with the police, and have been working with them every since. They have already located over two hundred of Quay's men and, while they cannot prove that these men have registered, as they have probably registered under assumed names, there is but little chance of any of Mr. Quay's colonizers being allowed to vote, as the detective corps will remain in the city until election day and will closely watch the polls. The effect of this move of the Democrats was shown when a carload of Philadelphia Republicans, who were coming on to register, were stopped at Trenton and turned back Thursday night by a telegram from New York city.

A Plain View of the Situation.

One of the most gratifying facts presented in this political campaign, is the universal admission by candid men in all parties that Grover Cleveland's administration has been wise, conservative, efficient and punctiliously honest. The wheels of government have moved smoothly, and consequently the larger business enterprises have met their expectations and the people generally have prospered. Even the financial stringency of 1887, a direct result of the enormous accumulation of surplus in the national treasury, and which for a time assumed threatening aspects, was so easily brushed away by the deft hand of the Secretary of the Treasury, that, comparatively, but few of the people, even in business circles, were aware of the seriousness of the situation, or the importance of the danger averted.

Such has been Grover Cleveland's administration for three and a half years—an administration which commands the respect and administration of intelligent people, not only in America, but throughout the world.

Is it any wonder that thoughtful and patriotic citizens of every party are inclined to "let well enough alone," by assisting to re elect Mr. Cleveland? That such is the fact almost every neighborhood abundantly attests. From all parts of the country come announcements—not singly, but by dozens and from some quarters by scores—of prominent business men, prominent manufacturers, and prominent agriculturists proclaiming themselves openly for Cleveland's re-election.

Why is it that the changes in favor of Cleveland are so largely among the best informed and most conscientious and patriotic of the people? It is not from the rabble or the ignorant that the changes toward Cleveland come. It is quite the other way, for it is to the ignorat that the Republican appeals for votes are chiefly directed. These misrepresentations of the issues and appeals to the lower passions and prejudices of men may be successful; but among the intelligent, well informed, it is impossible. They will be disgusted by falsehoods, but cannot be deceived.

The good will of the substantial business men of the country is undoubtedly with President Cleveland. They recognize him as an able statesman, a true patriot, a firm executive, and an honest man. These qualities always insure good government. To change for a President who is comparatively unknown—whose nomination was founded not upon his own but his grandfather's merits—and whose surroundings in the event of his election no man can foretell, in a business man's judgement would be manifestly unwise, as well as unsafe. Hence, President Cleveland's re-election on Tuesday next by an over-whelming vote is assured.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Oct. 29, 1888.

Mr. Cleveland has once more proved himself equal to the occasion, and the occasion was a most extraordinary one. For the first time in the history of the United States, the representative of a foreign nation has attempted to take part in a political intrigue in this country. Lord Sackville-West, the British minister, wrote a letter under date of Sept. 13, to an alleged correspondent in California, in which he took occasion to say that the President did not mean a word of his recent Canadian retaliation message, and that after his election he would prove himself a true friend of England and English interests. He further advised his alleged correspondent to vote the Democratic ticket in the interest of England. The purpose of this letter is very clear. It was written for the express purpose of being made public on the eve of the election in the hope of driving the Irish vote from Mr. Cleveland. In this city, where it is well known that the relations between the administration of Mr. Cleveland and the British Minister have been strained from the first, there is no difficulty experienced in arriving at the cause of this action on the part of Lord Sackville. He had given up all hope of controlling Mr. Cleveland, hence his desire to defeat him if possible. There was also another inducement; Lord Sackville and Mr. Harrison, the republican candidate for the presidency, are warm personal friends, and have been for many years. When Mr. Harrison was in the Senate they were constantly together. When the letter was first published, few people believed it to be genuine, so very foolish did it appear for a man in Lord Sackville's position to have written such a letter, but its authenticity was fully confirmed by Lord Sackville, and to make matters worse he allowed himself to be interviewed for publication, and the language he used was just about as obnoxious as it could possibly have been to patriotic Americans. As soon as Mr. Cleveland ascertained that Lord Sackville admitted having written this audacious meddling letter, he instructed Secretary Bayard to cable a demand upon the English Foreign Office, through the American minister in London, for the immediate recall of Lord Sackville. That such a thinly veiled fraud as this letter will have any effect upon the Irish vote is not for a moment to be believed by any one at all familiar with the leading characteristics of that race. They are practically solid for Cleveland and will remain so. As for Lord Sackville, he will be extremely fortunate if he gets out of the scrape with no worse punishment than a recall by his government. In any other country but the United States his impudence and audacity would have put his life in danger. Mr. Cleveland by his prompt action in resenting the insult to himself and the American people, by this English meddler, has shown that he is the right man in the right place, and the people will show their appreciation before long by giving him another term.

Mr. Cleveland reviewed the monster democratic procession in New York city Saturday afternoon, and immediately afterward returned to this city. He received a perfect ovation, and what is more to the point at this stage of the campaign, he was assured by the local managers that New York state was certain to give him a plurality of not less than 10,000, and that the British minister's letter, instead of carrying Irish voters to the republicans, had actually driven many Irishmen, who saw through the badly put up job, away from Harrison.

Time, it is said, evens all things. It would certainly seem so, when the republican Supreme Court is almost constantly handing down opinions upholding the doctrine of "States' Rights" to a greater extent than was ever claimed by its most radical adherents previous to the late war. If these decisions were being made by a democratic court, the republican editors of the country would all be calling it revolution, but now they hardly refer to the decisions, except as items of news.

Senator Morgan, who, as the leading democratic member of the Senate committee on foreign relations, has been perfectly familiar with the ideas of Mr. Cleveland on the fisheries and other Canadian questions, says of the retaliation message: "There was no thought of gaining party advantage by it. It was inspired by the highest motives that ever enter a statesman's heart. Whoever attributes other motives to him, does Mr. Cleveland a gross injustice. In that message he expressed what was strongest in his mind, and it was in perfect accord with his attitude from first to last. He did not doubt for a moment that Congress would grant him the power asked for, and he expected to exercise it at once. If he were not a candidate for re election, or if his defeat were assured, he would hold the same views."

Cheating Voters.

The act of June 13th 1883 punishes with heavy fine and imprisonment any person who shall furnish, or supply, to any voter, any ballot, or ticket, falsely representing it to contain certain names not thereon, with the intent and purpose of defrauding said voter out of his expressed choice.

Salt Rheum

The agonies of those who suffer from severe salt rheum are indescribable. The cleansing, healing, purifying influences of Hood's Sarsaparilla are unequalled by any other medicine.

"I take pleasure in recommending Hood's Sarsaparilla, for it has done wonders for me. I had salt rheum very severely, affecting me over nearly my entire body. Only those who have suffered from this disease in its worst form can imagine the extent of my affliction. I tried many medicines, but failed to receive benefit until I took Hood's Sarsaparilla. Then the disease began to subside, the disappeared, and now I am entirely free from the disease. My blood seems to be thoroughly purified, and my general health is greatly benefited." LYMAN ALLEN, Sexton N. E. Church, North Chicago, Ill.

"My son had salt rheum on his hands and the calves of his legs, so bad that they would crack open and bleed. He took Hood's Sarsaparilla and is entirely cured." J. B. STANTON, Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

From 108 to 135

"I was seriously troubled with salt rheum for three years, and receiving no benefit from medical treatment I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I am now entirely cured of salt rheum; my weight has increased from 108 lbs. to 135." MRS. ALICE SMITH, Stamford, Conn.

If you suffer from salt rheum, or any blood disease, try Hood's Sarsaparilla. It has cured many others, and will cure you.

Inhuman Act of Murderous Hungarians.

WILKESBARRE, Oct. 30.—A mile or so from Nanticoke is a small settlement known as "Honeypot." Here, in a little two-story cottage reside John and Joseph Voliski, brothers. John is 28 years of age and married. Joseph is 26 and single. With them reside their sister Mary, a beautiful girl of 17. Mary had a lover, Joseph Grasch, who desired to marry her, and she was willing, but being under age, a license could not be obtained without the consent of her brother John, who acted as her guardian, their parents being still residents of Poland. The young guardian objected to the attentions paid his sister by young Grasch, and on more than one occasion ordered him from the house.

The lovers were not to be baffled, however, and decided to elope. One o'clock this morning was the hour fixed for the escape. Joseph Grasch appeared on the scene at the appointed hour, and placing a ladder against the building, under the window of the room in which his ladylove slept, prepared for the flight. The girl was waiting for him, and quickly arranging her apparel she began to descend the ladder. At this moment the brothers, who were sleeping in a lower room, were aroused by the slight noise that had been made and rushed out into the night air. They caught the pair in the very act of escaping, and their excitement and frenzy knew no bounds. In their madness one of them felled Grasch to the ground. Then, Joseph Voliski held fast to the prostrate form while his brother John caught an axe and began to hack young Grasch to pieces. The butchery was one of the most inhuman and brutal on record. All the toes on the right foot were cut off, as were a number of fingers from the left hand, one of the ears and a portion of the nose. Several ribs were broken, the chest and forehead crushed in, and there are deep gashes on the shoulders, arms and legs. Strange to say the man still lives, but his death is a question of only a few hours.

The injured man was taken to his boarding-house, the residence of Lukosh Budock, three blocks away, and Dr. Mahon was called. In the excitement of the hour the assassins fled and for a time secreted themselves in the house of a neighbor, where Constable John Kutzki found them shortly before 11 o'clock. They were taken before Justice Powell, who, after hearing the evidence, committed them to jail without bail. The prisoners were brought to this city on the noon train and lodged in the county prison.

The prisoners are rather good-looking young men and fairly intelligent. Both profess great love for their sister Mary, and insist that the man who sought her hand was not worthy of her. They also claim that he had on several occasions threatened to shoot them.

EXCURSION TO DANVILLE.

An excursion train will be run on the D. L. & W. road on Saturday to the Democratic parade at Danville, leaving Bloomsburg at 7 o'clock p. m.

PRAISE not the day before the evening glow. You may praise Warner's Log Cabin Sarsaparilla for purifying the blood without danger for it brings the glow of health at once. The largest bottles on the market. 120 doses for $1.00. All druggists sell it.

Inhuman Act of Murderous Hungarians.

WILKESBARRE, Oct. 30.—A mile or so from Nanticoke is a small settlement known as "Honeypot." Here, in a little two-story cottage reside John and Joseph Voliski, brothers. John is 28 years of age and married. Joseph is 26 and single. With them reside their sister Mary, a beautiful girl of 17. Mary had a lover, Joseph Grasch, who desired to marry her, and she was willing, but being under age, a license could not be obtained without the consent of her brother John, who acted as her guardian, their parents being still residents of Poland. The young guardian objected to the attentions paid his sister by young Grasch, and on more than one occasion ordered him from the house.

The lovers were not to be baffled, however, and decided to elope. One o'clock this morning was the hour fixed for the escape. Joseph Grasch appeared on the scene at the appointed hour, and placing a ladder against the building, under the window of the room in which his ladylove slept, prepared for the flight. The girl was waiting for him, and quickly arranging her apparel she began to descend the ladder. At this moment the brothers, who were sleeping in a lower room, were aroused by the slight noise that had been made and rushed out into the night air. They caught the pair in the very act of escaping, and their excitement and frenzy knew no bounds. In their madness one of them felled Grasch to the ground. Then, Joseph Voliski held fast to the prostrate form while his brother John caught an axe and began to hack young Grasch to pieces. The butchery was one of the most inhuman and brutal on record. All the toes on the right foot were cut off, as were a number of fingers from the left hand, one of the ears and a portion of the nose. Several ribs were broken, the chest and forehead crushed in, and there are deep gashes on the shoulders, arms and legs. Strange to say the man still lives, but his death is a question of only a few hours.

The injured man was taken to his boarding-house, the residence of Lukosh Budock, three blocks away, and Dr. Mahon was called. In the excitement of the hour the assassins fled and for a time secreted themselves in the house of a neighbor, where Constable John Kutzki found them shortly before 11 o'clock. They were taken before Justice Powell, who, after hearing the evidence, committed them to jail without bail. The prisoners were brought to this city on the noon train and lodged in the county prison.

The prisoners are rather good-looking young men and fairly intelligent. Both profess great love for their sister Mary, and insist that the man who sought her hand was not worthy of her. They also claim that he had on several occasions threatened to shoot them.

TO THE PUBLIC.

Intending purchasers of POND'S EXTRACT cannot take too much precaution to prevent substitution. Some druggists, trading on the popularity of the great Family Remedy, attempt to palm off other preparations, unscrupulously asserting them to be "the same as" or "equal to" POND'S EXTRACT, indifferent to the deceit practiced upon and disappointment thereby caused to the purchaser, so long as larger profits accrue to themselves. Always insist on having POND'S EXTRACT. Take no other.

SOLD IN BOTTLES ONLY; NEVER BY MEASURE. Quality uniform.

Didn't Like the Baby's Religion.

(Washington Special to Boston Herald.)

Col. Nevins, in speaking of the trouble between his daughter and James G. Blaine, jr., has quoted Mrs. Blaine, sr., as saying that she did not want any grandchild of hers baptized in the Catholic faith, and it was because se the baby of Mrs. Blaine, jr., was so baptised that the trouble originated. This statement has created considerable discussion among Irish Democrats in Washington, and yesterday Representative Lagan, of Louisana, one of the few Congressmen in town, spoke quite freely about the matter:

"Four years ago," said Mr. Lagan, "Dr. Burchard startled the country with 'Rum, Romanism and Rebellion,' and now, according to Col. Nevins, Mrs. James G. Blaine, sr., is acting the same role, only a little stronger, if anything. Her attitude of hostility to the Catholics must certainly set the friends of Gen. Harrison to thinking.

At all elections hereafter held under the laws of this Commonwealth, the election polls shall be opened at seven o'clock in the forenoon, and shall continue open without interruption or adjournment until seven o'clock in the evening when the polls will be closed.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN,

That every person excepting Justices of the Peace and Aldermen, Notaries Public and Persons in the militia service of the State, who shall hold or shall within two months have held any office or appointment of profit or trust under the United States, or of this State, and city or corporated district, whether a commissioned officer or otherwise, a subordinate officer or agent who is or shall be employed under the Legislature, Executive or Judiciary Department of this State, or of any city or of any incorporated district, and also, that every member of Congress and of the State Legislature, and of the select or common council of any city, or commissioners of any incorporated district, are by law incapable of holding or exercising at the same time the office or appointment of Judge, Inspector or Clerk of any election of this Commonwealth, and that no Inspector, Judge or other officer of such election shall be eligible to be then voted for.

The Inspectors and Judges of the elections shall meet at the respective places appointed for holding the election in the district to which they respectively belong, before seven o'clock in the morning, and each of said Inspectors shall appoint one clerk, who shall be a qualified voter of such district.

The qualified voters of the several districts in this county at all general, township borough and special elections, are hereby hereafter authorized and required to vote by tickets printed or written, or partly printed and partly written, severally classified as follows: One ticket shall embrace the names of all Judges of Courts voted for, and labelled, outside, "Judiciary;" one ticket shall embrace the names of all the State officers voted for and to be labelled "State;" one ticket shall embrace the names of all county officers voted for, including the office of Senator, and Members of Assembly, if voted for, and members of Congress, if voted for, and be labelled "County;" one ticket shall embrace the names of all township officers voted for, and be labelled "Township;" one ticket shall embrace the names of all borough officers voted for, and be labelled "Borough."

And each class shall be deposited in separate ballot boxes.

Miss Leverett returned from Carlisle on Monday after an absence of three weeks.

Mrs. J. O. Caswell, now at York Pa., visited her friends in this place, during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Z. T, Fowler will celebrate the twentieth anniversary of their marriage at their home in Willow Grove on Saturday November 17th. Invitations are out for the occasion.

Rev. Dr. Zahner of Omaha preached in the Episcopal church on Sunday morning, and a large congregation was present to welcome him back to the parish of which he was the rector for eight years. He left here two years ago to take charge of All Saints' church, Omaha, which is a large and wealthy parish. Western air seems to agree with him, as he has gained thirty pounds in weight. He started for home on Monday morning.

The foundation of the new Presbyterian Church is about completed.

No clue has as yet been found to the Wilkesbarre murderers.

Next Tuesday will be November 6th and election day. The great struggle will soon be over.

Limestone spawls are now being put on Centre street. The town has 60 car loads to be used.

Wednesday night was Hallowe'en, and the usual pranks were played by the small boy.

The Democrats turned out in large numbers last Saturday night and the parade was a complete success.

A new chopping machine of excellent manufacture has been placed in Rawling's meat market.

The street Commissioner has placed culverts at the crossings corner of Third and Iron streets. This should be done at all over streets.

Capt. G. W. Utt of Rohrsburg and Mrs. Moore of Bloomsburg were married at the residence of Caleb Barton on Monday, by Rev. W. C. Leverett.

The republican parade on Wednesday night numbered over 500. Clubs were here from Berwick, Catawissa, Danville and Northamberland.

J. G. Wells has just put an engraving machine in his jewelry store and is prepared to do all kinds of engraving of silverware, &c.

The worst feature about catarrh is its dangerous tendency to consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures catarrh by purifying the blood.

Theta Castle No. 276, Knights of the Golden Eagle of Bloomsburg, will give a parade in the afternoon and a supper in the evening of Thanksgiving Day.

Abraham Snyder died at his home in Espy of a stroke of paralysis, Friday of last week, at an advanced age. He was a pump maker by trade and well known in the county.

C. E. Savage has a nice selection of gold and silver head silk umbrellas. Gold and silver head canes. Also a new line of Gents' and Ladies gold watches. 3 doors above Market St.

Call at a drug store and procure a ten cent trial size bottle of Dr. Shattuck's Helianthus, the Rapid Oxygen Cure, and see how promptly it will relieve a troublesome cough. A 50 cent size bottle is often sufficient to cure the worst cough.

Dr. Talmage comes high. He received twelve hundred dollars recently for two talks at Piedmont Chautauqua.—Educational News, Phila.

Dr. Talmage will lecture at the County Institute, Thursday evening, Dec. 13.

Dr. C. W. Ammerman, formerly of Orangeville, returned to his home in Delaware last week, Thursday, after visiting his friends here. His sister Miss Mattie Ammerman went with him, and will make her home there for a time.

M. J. Hess is now nicely located in the Lockard building with his dental rooms. He occupies the front of the second story, and has his rooms fitted up in fine style. Mr. Hess is a graduate of Philadelphia Dental College, and has thoroughly prepared himself for his work.

Every voter in the COLUMBIAN office will cast his ballot for Cleveland and Thurman. It is said that the editor of the Sentinel threatened to discharge any of his hands who marched in a republican procession, but two of his employees will vote for Harrison and Morton just the same, if we are correctly informed.

Wm. Neal & Sons' furnace made for the week ending Oct. 20th 301 tons, for the week ending Oct. 27, 292 tons of iron. When this furnace blew in, in the spring of 1854, one hundred tons per week was a large production. The iron manufactured during the last two weeks is all a high grade of foundry iron.

Krickbaum has confessed at last. In last week's Sentinel he says that "the large majority of Democrats that ever bolted the regularly nominated ticket regretted having done so." He might have added that such regret was entirely unnecessary in Columbia county as his bolt in 1884 did not prevent his receiving a nomination this year. It has been officially declared that bolting is no offense in his case.

A democratic meeting was held at the school house in Sugarloaf township Monday evening, October 29th. W. B. Peterman was made president of the meeting and Cyrus Larish and Thomas Smith vice presidents, and A. M. Harvey, secretary. The meeting was addressed by Hon. A. L. Fritz and J. H. Maize Esq. Notwithstanding it was a dark and rainy evening the house was crowded.

The English melodrama, "Thrown upon the World," a play founded on Chas. Reade's novel, "It is never too late to mend," was presented at the Opera House last Friday evening by Rufus Scott and company. Mr. Scott assumed the principle role of Tom Shackford, a London thief who afterward reforms, and played the part very well. He was assisted by an excellent company. The audience was not large but enthusiastic.

Rev. Dr. Mitchell's family has removed to Mt. Carmel during the past week. Dr. Mitchell was called here as pastor of the Presbyterian church in 1872, and was in charge continuously up to the time of his resignation a few months ago. He received a call to Mt. Carmel and entered upon his work there soon after his resignation, but on account of sickness in his family, and the difficulty of obtaining a suitable residence at this time of year, the members of his household remained here until this week. Dr. Mitchell did a good work while here, and both he and his family take with them the respect and esteem of the entire community.

Chas. Walters was made a happy man last week by the addition of a girl baby to his family.

Mrs. Mary Evans, wife of Dr. J. R Evans, died at her home on Third street Monday afternoon at two o'clock, aged 54 years, 8 months and 6 days. Death was only a release from her sufferings, as for years she has been afflicted with a tumor which has gradually sapped her life away. She bore up under her terrible affliction with a true Christian resignation, and the cheerfulness which she manifested at all times was wonderful. She was a good christian woman, was baptized and confirmed an Episcopalian a few years ago while then on her sick bed. She leaves one child by her first marriage, Mrs. Wm. Payne, now on her way to China. A true and steadfast friend, Mrs. Evans' death will be deeply felt by the circle of friends she leaves.

Funeral services were held at the house on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, conducted by Rev. W. C. Leverett, and the remains were interred in Rosemont.

Mrs. Nancy Kline died at her home in Adams township, Seneca county, Ohio, on Sunday October 21, in her eighty-seventh year.

The deceased, whose maiden name was Nancy Roberts, was born in Sugarloaf township, Columbia county Pennsylvania May 28, 1802, and in Fishingcreek township January 31, 1819, she was united in marriage with George Kline, the ceremony being performed by Isaac Kline Esq. Mr. and Mrs. Kline resided in their native state until August 18 1836, when they moved to Ohio and located on the farm where the remainder of their lives were spent.

Mr. Kline died thirty-seven years ago aged 58 years, but his widow survived him and lived an exemplary life, dying at the age of eighty-six. She was a charitable and christian lady, and was loved by all with whom she came in contact. In early life she united with the Lutheran church and remained a faithful member until she was called hence.

She was the mother of ten children, but one of whom is now living, William, who for the past six years has held the responsible position of Infirmary Director of Seneca county Ohio; she was the grandmother of twenty children (ten of whom are now living) and the great-grandmother of seven.

Mrs. Kline will be remembered by many of the older residents of Columbia county where a large number of relatives still reside.

A Decision by Judge Rice Which Will Cause Trouble.

An important desision relative to the payment of the clerks of the register of wills of Luzerne county was handed down by Judge Rice Monday afternoon. The pay of register's clerks has heretofore been made by the county, but when some weeks ago Chief Clerk Reed presented a bill for a quarter's salary, $450, Treasurer Smoulter refused payment and gave as his authority the new law, which says that in counties of less than 120,000 population the clerk of the orphans' court must pay his clerk hire from his own funds. This had, however, never been enforced in Luzerne county until Treasurer Smoulter's action made the test case which was ruled upon by Judge Rice. His ruling was that Register McGreevy, not the county, must pay the clerks. There is no doubt that Luzerne's population is now at least 180,000 but the basis of calculation must, by the ruling of the supreme court, be made on the last official census, which makes the population 135,000. The decision will make a difference of nearly $6,000 in Register McGreevy's income as clerk of orphans' court.

New Fads in Note Paper.

Invitations are usually written on the new writing paper which is now being vigorously "taken up" by the fair sex-so vigorously, indeed, that they will probably tire of it in a very short time. The "leather" paper, the bright scarlet notes that we used to receive, the "earthquake" paper, the "sliced lemon" paper, which made us bilious to look at, "ye old English" paper, and others too numerous to mention, are all things of the past, and this winter nothing will be used by the very fashionable but the dull verde-gris or "Moonlight," and the greeny-blue or "Gobelin gray" note paper. The address, crest or monogram is stamped in dead white, which is very effective on the dark tone of the paper. I am told that this is the first stamping ever done in white, it having hitherto been regarded as an impossible feat.

THE BLOOMSBURG SCHOOL CASE.

OPINION OF THE SUPREME COURT AFFIRMING THE PROCEEDINGS.

"PERSONS WHO HAVE MORE PRIDE OF OPINION THAN REGARD FOR THE PUBLIC INTERESTS COMMITTED TO THEIR CARE, ARE NOT SUITABLE FOR THE EXERCISE OF PUBLIC FUNCTIONS."

A full report of the proceedings in the case of the Bloomsburg School Directors appeared in the COLUMBIAN at the time the matter was in progress, and our readers will remember the circumstances. After a full hearing the court of this county removed the board of directors and appointed others in their stead, and filed an opinion in the case which was prepared after many days of careful investigation. From this decision J. C. Brown, J. J. Lawall and I. Hagenbuch, three of the removed directors, appealed to the Supreme Court, and the case was argued last April, but not decided until October 4.

Under ordinary circumstances we should say nothing further than to print the opinion, but in justice to all concerned we are compelled to call attention to the action of one of the parties, who in the columns of his newspaper, the Republican, published some most remarkable articles, in which the writer, J. C. Brown, attacked every body in any way opposed to him in the case. Those people who thought he was wrong in his action as a director were called street corner loafers; the counsel who were employed against him were repeatedly maligned and misrepresented; Judge Elwell was charged with having disposed of the case in a "hastily prepared opinion," with the intimation that his own pleasure interfered with the public business because of his haste to depart for Florida, when the truth was that his departure for the south was delayed against his physician's advice, in order that he might prepare what the Supreme Court calls "an excellent opinion which fully indicated the correctness of his action."

Even the man who served the subpoenas on witnesses was made the subject of attempted ridicule. When the new school board paid the counsel whom they had authorized to go on with the case, both the board and their attorneys were charged with being parties to a conspiracy to rob the school treasury, in one of the most malicious and libellous articles that ever appeared in the press of this county. Subsequently Mr. Brown endeavored to influence the town auditors to refuse to pass the order issued by the board in payment of legal fees, but he failed in this as he did in every previous and subsequent step in the case.

In one article he said "The public have recorded their vindication, and all that is still left is for the Supreme Court to record theirs."

The Supreme Court has recorded its vindication, and a mere scathing rebuke than it has administered to the appellants, it would be difficult to express in language. All the legal technicalities upon which they hoped to win their case are unnoticed by the Supreme Court, and the case is decided purely upon the merits in the following opinion by Justice Green:

OPINION.

In this case certain citizens and tax payers of the Bloom School District comulain, inter alia, that the school directors of the district have neglected and refused to appoint a sufficient number of teachers to keep the schools in operation. Answers were filed by the six directors in sections of three each. In both the answers it is stated that fifteen of the teachers were appointed at the regular meeting for that purpose on 24th June, and that this was all that were to be appointed except the Principal. It appears by the evidence that sixteen was the number that were annually appointed for several years immediately previous and there is no doubt, under the pleadings and evidence, that this was the number intended to be appointed for the year in question, 1887. As the necessity for more than fifteen is alleged in the petition and is not denied in either of the answers, but on the contrary both the answers and the recorded proceedings of the directors at their meetings, conclusively prove that another was to be appointed but was not, it must be taken that the learned court below was right in holding that there was necessity for another teacher to be appointed. The evidence taken by the Commissioner also fully justified the court in finding as a fact that there was such a necessity. This being so, it is undoubtedly correct that the board of directors, when they failed to appoint an additional teacher, failed to perform an imperative duty.

The proceedings of the board show an unseemly, indeed an absurd, contest over the amount of the salary to be paid to the additional teacher. Three of the directors insisted that $800 should be paid, and the other three insisted that the amount should be $1000. They refused to make any concessions to each other, and actually allowed the appointment of a teacher to go by default because they were unwilling to agree upon the amount of the salary.

PERSONS WHO HAVE MORE PRIDE OF OPINION THAN REGARD FOR THE PUBLIC INTERESTS COMMITTED TO THEIR CARE ARE NOT SUITABLE FOR THE EXERCISE OF PUBLIC FUNCTIONS. THE BEST, IN FACT THE ONLY COURSE TO ADOPT WITH THEM IS TO RELIEVE THEM FROM THE DIFFICULTIES OF THEIR POSITION AND PUT OTHERS IN THEIR PLACE. THIS IS WHAT THE LEARNED COURT BELOW DID, AND IN AN EXCELLENT OPINION FULLY INDICATED THE CORRECTNESS OF ITS ACTION.

Proceedings Affirmed.

It was once supposed that scrofula could not be eradicated from the system; but the marvelous results produced by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla disprove this theory. The reason is, this medicine is the most powerful blood-purifier ever discovered.

Cleveland and Thurman Meetings.

A Cleveland and Thurman meeting was held at Geo. Miller's hotel in Briarcreek on Thursday October 25th. There was a pole raising and speeches by H. E Smith and J. H. Maize. A good number of tariff reformers took part in the meeting.

On Friday, October 27th, a meeting was held at Slabtown. The meeting was called to order at 8 p. m., and H. E. Smith and J. H. Maize addressed the assemblage.

Grant Herring and J. H. Maize addressed a meeting at Beaver Saturday evening.

A meeting was held at the Dilly school house at Canby on Monday evening and speeches were made by A. L. Fritz, J. H. Maize and Francis Heck?

Phosphates in Baking Powders.

Prof. H. C. White, State Chemist, of Georgia, gave this subject attention and wrote: "I have been familiar for a number of years with the general character of Prof. Horsford's phosphatic preparations. Recent examinations made by me of his baking powder (Rumford Yeast Powder) show it to be exactly what it is claimed for it. When mixed with water a double phosphate is formed and remains in the bread when baked. In ordinary cream tartar baking powders the substance left in the bread after raising is rochelle salts—a double tartrate. The phosphates are useful substances in animal nutrition and growth, the tartrates are not. In my opinion, the phosphatic powder is, therefore, preferable to the others, so far as healthfulness is concerned."

Log Cabin Grandmothers.

An Indian doctor has recently discovered in a common weed whose medicinal qualities have never before been suspected, a valuable remedy for bowel disorders.

There is nothing particularly strange about this fact.

Nothing.

And yet the very simplicity of the new discovery would, with some, seem to throw just doubt upon its powers. To make it one has only to pour hot water over the leaves of the plant. In its preparation no vast chemical works and appliances are required.

Is it to be wondered at since such plainly prepared remedies are accounted of such great merit in these days, that such wonderful results attended our grandmothers, whose teas and infusions of roots and herbs and balsams, have exerted so great an influence to the maintenance of health and life?

Certainly not!

The greatest pieces of machinery, strike us most by their exceeding simplicity.

The secret of success of grandmother's remedies was their freshness and simplicity. Every autumn found the little Log Cabin abundantly supplied with fresh leaves, roots, herbs and balsams, which were carefully dried and prepared and laid away for use. Dreading to call a doctor because of the expensiveness of his far-made trips, they immediately gave attention to the disease and routed it before it had gained a foothold.

The old Log Cabin grandmother, in cap and high tucked gown, and perchance bespectacled in rough silver, her weary feet encased in "hum made" slips, is the dear sweet nurse who rises to the view of many a man and woman to-day as the early years of life pass in retrospect.

The secrets of grandmother's medicines were rapidly being forgotten and the world was not growing in the grace of good health. To restore the lost art of log cabin healing has been for years the desire of a well known philanthropist in whose ancestral line were eight "goodly physicians" of the old style, men who never saw a medical college save in the woods, nor a "medical diploma" except that inscribed on the faces of healthy and long lived patients. Much time and money was expended in securing the old formula, which to-day are put forth as—"Log Cabin remedies,"—sarsaparilla, hops and buchu, cough and consumption, and several others, by Warner, whose name is famous and a standard for medical existence all over the globe. These oldest, newest and best preparations have been recognized as of such superexcellence that to-day they can be found with all leading dealers.

When Col. Ethan Allen was making history along our northern frontier during the revolution, Col Seth Warner, the fighting Sheridan of that army, who was a skillful natural doctor, used many such remedies, notably like the Log Cabin extract, sarsaparilla and cough and consumption remedy, among the soldiers with famous success.

They are a noble inheritance which we of to-day may enjoy to the full, as did our forefathers, and using, read, as did they, the harvest of a life full of days and full of usefulness.

At a seaside hotel you can always tell a dry goods clerk by the way he folds his napkin, and a bartender by the way in which he feels under the table-leaf for a drawer of sugar to sweeten his tea.—Puck.

The Side Democrats are On.

WHEN THE EXTRADITION TREATY WITH ENGLAND IS CONSIDERED.

SOME INTERESTING FACTS TAKEN FROM THE CONGRESSIONAL RECORD, WHICH THROW SOME LIGHT ON A VERY IMPORTANT STATE QUESTION.

The New York Times of a recent date contained the following interesting communication:

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The desperation of the republicans in their attempt to regain control of the government is conspicuous in nothing so much as in a reckless and systematic disregard for the truth. This is befitting and worthy of a campaign led, as it is, by the only presidental candidate who in the history of the country was defeated on account of his bad personal record. One of the latest feats of this unscrupulous party is not only characterized by blushing falsehood, but a presumptions effort to discount the intelligence of Irish-Americans. I refer to the use of the mercenary and mendacious columns of the Irish World to impress upon the minds of Irishmen the idea that the present administration is unfriendly to them by reason of the extradition treaty with Great Britain, which was sent to the Senate by the president on the 8th of July, 1886. The facts are briefly these: In June of 1886 an extradition treaty was agreed upon between this country and Great Britain which contained among other things the following provision: "Malicious injury to property whereby the life of any person shall be in danger, if such injuries constitute a crime for which the offender may be extradited. The treaty was referred to the committee on foreign relations, consisting of four democrats and the five following republicans: John Sherman, George F. Edmunds, William P. Frey, William M. Evarts and Benjamin Harrison until his retirement from office on the 4th of March, 1887, when his place on the committee was filled by Mr. Dolph, of Oregon. Some time after the reference the committee reported the following amendment to the above provision:

"Malicious injuries to persons or property by the use of explosives, or malicious injuries or obstruction to railways whereby the life of any person shall be endangered, if such injuries constitute a crime according to the laws of that political division of either country in which the offense shall have been committed, and of that political division of either country in which the offender shall be arrested."

This proposed amendment was opposed by every democratic Senator, and by Senator Riddleberger, who moved to consider the question in open session. In discussing the motion he said:

"I do not believe there is a single member of the committee on foreign relations who will rise to-day in open session and advocate the amendment which comes from that committee."

So determined was the opposition to the proposed amendment on the part of the democratic senators, the further consideration of the treaty was postponed until next December.

It is a matter of fair and conclusive inference from the circumstances of the case that the amendment was reported at the instance of the British minister. For while all senatorial action was under the seal of secrecy, the fact is known to be true that before the treaty was submitted to the senate the British minister, Lord Sackville, called upon the secretary of the state and urged him to consent to the concise amendment, which was afterward reported by the republican of the majority committee. This the secretary of state positively and firmly declined to do. The object of her majesty's representative was obvious. He knew that the treaty, as originally agreed upon, contained no provision which would permit the extradition of Irishmen for alleged offenses growing out of the use of dynamite or explosives, hence his earnest appeal to the secretary of state. It is apparent that an application was more successfully made to the committee on foreign relations. It will be noted that there is no provision of the United States statutes which would constitute malicious injuries referred to in the treaty as originally agreed upon a crime, and there is no provision in the original treaty which would permit the arrest of any person if he were located in some political divison (or state) in which such malicious injury would be a crime, so that the objectionable feature of the proposed amendment is directly and expressly chargeable to the republican majority of the committee, and not to the administration of President Cleveland, as falsely charged by Pat Ford and the understrikers who are under his bad and misleading influence. I believe there is no treaty existing, or ever been made, between the United States and any foreign power containing the remarkable provision proposed by the committee on foreign relations in their attempt to discriminate against the people of Ireland. The amendment was not only obviously designed to apply to that unhappy country, but in order to facilitate the imperial government in its complete domination of down-trodden and long-suffering Ireland, the local laws—not the federal law alone—but the local laws of every state of this Union were to be made available and subservient for the purposes of its tyrannical scheme of utter political oppression and ruin. The republican senators not only lent themselves as willing tools to the British government for the purpose of inflicting this unprecedented and outrageous discrimination against that large and thrifty element of our people who naturally and rightly sympathize with the cause of Ireland, but have attempted to keep the whole matter under the cloak of secrecy, while for the purposes of the campaign treacherous and purchasable Irishmen like the editor of the Irish World disemminate the notion that this democratic administration is responsible for an outrage which they alone have attempted and are justly responsible for. And if Irishmen feel indignant, as they may well do, at this scheme to discriminate against them, their indignation should be, and will be, directed against the republican senators who proposed and supported it, and not against their democratic friends who opposed it. And they will bear in mind that in this danger, as in every crisis in the past history of the country, from the dark days of Know-Nothingism down to the present time, the democratic party has defended the rights of the Irish people.

REFORM.

"Bronze John" is a new Florida term for the Yellow Jack."

He Has Always Been a Republican, but Will Vote for Cleveland.

John F. Rathbone, head of the firm of Rathbone, Sard & Co., the largest manufacturers in Albany, will vote for President Cleveland on the tariff issue. He is a life-long Republican, and was made Brigadier General by Gov. E. D. Morgan in 1861. He organized and sent to the front forty-five New York regiments and was Adjutant-General under Gov. John A. Dix. Gen. Rathbone says:

"I shall vote for Cleveland this year because I believe a reduction of the tariff would be for the great advantage of the business and manufacturing interests of our country. I think that our manufacturing industries do not require the amount of tariff now levied and that excessive tariff taxes are an encumbrance upon many of them. I wish it distinctly understood that I am not a Free-Trader. I believe in a proper degree of protection, for such of our industries as require protection, but manufacturing to-day, in my judgement, is impeded by the excessive war tariff. It is an absurd idea that Republicans should object to a platform favoring reduction of the tariff and should denounce it as 'Free Trade,' when for many years the Republican party itself was pledged to make the reductions which President Cleveland favors. Because the Republican party has abandoned its former pledges and principles it does not follow that Republicans like myself should accept its present leadership abandon the convictions which for years were part of our political faith."

A SIMPLE MENTION of the name POND'S EXTRACT calls to mind the uninterrupted success of an old standard remedy, recognized for half a century as the great specific for all forms of Pain, Inflamations, and Hemorrhages. But do not trust in weak imitations.

Republicans Left Him to Starve.

A LEAF FROM PRESIDENT CLEVELAND'S PENSION RECORD.

The following correspondence, which was sent to the Democratic State Committee will be of interest to all veterans of the war. The case referred to is that of B. F. Balch, of Fargo, Dak., who under a Republican administration had been denied an increase of his $8 a mouth pension. Mr. Balch laid his case before President Cleveland, and in eight days received the following answer:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, July 11, 1887.

B. F. Balch, Fargo, Dak.

DEAR SIR: The President directs me to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of recent date, and to say to you that your request has been granted. Your pension has been increased to $12 per month, which amount you will draw on the date of your next payment. The President is well satisfied from your record that you are entitled to even a higher rate. He directs me to say to you:

"At the expiration of six months go before the Pension Bureau and be thoroughly examined, and notify me and I will see that you receive justice."

DANIEL LAMONT, Private Secretary.

Mr. Balch received letters from all parts of the country asking whether the above letter, which was printed, was authentic, and it was even asserted that it was a campaign lie. To one of the correspondents Mr. Balch has made reply as follows:

FARGO, DAK., Oct. 6.

Mr. F. M. La Follette.

DEAR SIR: In reply to your letter of Oct. 3, upon the subject of which I now write, I will say that attached newspaper account is true, except in one particular. The date should be July 3, 1887, instead of 1888. Otherwise it is true in every particular. I am a Republican, but will not lie to help elect any man to an office. I do not believe that Mr. Cleveland is opposed to pensioning deserving old soldiers. I believe that Mr. Cleveland is an honest man, if he is a Democrat. The Republican administration left me to starve on $8 a month, but Mr. Cleveland had time to look up my case and do me justice, even if I am an old man badly wounded and without a vote in a Territory. My hand is so lame to-day that I cannot hold a pen, and a friend writes this at my dictation. If we Republicans cannot elect Mr. Harrison without lying about President Cleveland, then I say let Mr. Cleveland be elected, and God bless him (is what I say) for what he did for me. I wish you would publish your letter and this, my answer, in the same paper in which the attached slip was printed.

If You Are Sick

With Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Blood Humors, Kidney Disease, Constipation, Female Troubles, Fever and Ague, Sleeplessness, Partial Paralysis, or Nervous Prostration, use Paine's Celery Compound and be cured. In each of these the cause is mental or physical overwork, anxiety, exposure or malaria, the effect of which is to weaken the nervous system, resulting in one of these diseases. Remove the CAUSE with that great Nerve Tonic, and the RESULT will disappear.

Paine's Celery Compound

JAS. L. BOWEN, Springfield, Mass., writes:—"Paine's Celery Compound cannot be excelled as a Nerve Tonic. In my case a single bottle wrought a great change. My nervousness entirely disappeared, and with it the resulting affection of the stomach, heart and liver, and the whole tone of the system was wonderfully invigorated. I tell my friends, if sick as I have been, Paine's Celery Compound

Will Cure You!

For the Aged, Nervous, Debilitated.

People Pay Heavy Bills

For medical attendance and medicine. Sickness is expensive, and those with small incomes feel this burden keenly. The physician must sometimes be called but he is not needed one-tenth as often as many think. What is required is a family medicine; one that will relieve and cure those ailments which are liable to come at any season and to attack both sexes and all ages. Amid the host of articles that are offered to the public for this purpose nearly all are useless or worse than useless. It is no vain boast to say that the medicine herein mentioned is of a very different character. What it has done is known to multitudes of persons whom it has cured of weary and painful diseases. It has saved time, money and many dear and precious lives. Now please understand that as the life is in the blood so disease and death are in the blood. Get the poison out of the blood and life and health at once return to every part of the body. Dr. Brown's Sarsaparilla does this work quickly and surely through its direct and positive action upon the stomach, bowels, kidneys, liver and skin. For all waste and corrupt elements must be cast off by means of these channels. Rheumatism, scrofula, bronchitis, gout, consumption, malaria, catarrh, hay fever, all skin affections and eruptions are diseases of the blood.

Mr. Geo. H. Wish, of the firm of Thaxter & Wish, Bangor, Me., was afflicted with a scrofulous humor which caused troublesome sores upon both his legs. Many remedies were used and several physicians consulted, without result. After taking Brown's Sarsaparilla a short time he was better, and soon the eruptions disappeared and he is now all right. This is only one of a thousand victories gained by

WHAT AILS YOU?

Do you feel dull, languid, low-spirited, lifeless, and indescribably miserable, both physically and mentally; experience a sense of fullness or bloating after eating, or of "goneness," or emptiness of stomach in the morning, tongue coated, bitter or bad taste in mouth, irregular appetite, dizziness, frequent headaches, blurred eyesight, "floating specks" before the eyes, nervous prostration or exhaustion, irritability of temper, hot flushes, alternating with chilly sensations, sharp, biting, transient pains here and there, cold feet, drowsiness after meals, wakefulness, or disturbed and unrefreshing sleep, constant, indescribable feeling of dread, or of impending calamity?

If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from that most common of American maladies—Bilious Dyspepsia, or Torpid Liver, associated with Dyspepsia, or Indigestion. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. No matter what stage it has reached, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will subdue it, if taken according to directions for a reasonable length of time. If not cured, complications multiply and Consumption of the Lungs, Skin Disease, Heart Disease, Rheumatism, Kidney Disease, or other grave maladies are quite liable to set in and, sooner or later, induce a fatal termination.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery acts powerfully upon the Liver, and through that great blood-purifying organ, cleanses the system of all blood-taints and impurities, from whatever cause arising. It is equally efficacious in acting upon the Kidneys, and other excretory organs, cleansing, strengthening and healing their diseases. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it promotes digestion and nutrition, thereby building up both flesh and strength. In malarial districts, this wonderful medicine has gained great celebrity in curing Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Dumb Ague, and kindred diseases.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

CURES ALL HUMORS,

from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula. Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter or Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-Joint Disease, "White Swellings," Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. Send ten cents in stamps for a large Treatise, with colored plates, on Skin Diseases, or the same amount for a Treatise on Scrofulous Affections.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength and bodily health will be established.

CONSUMPTION,

which is Scrofula of the Lungs, is arrested and cured by this remedy, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease. From its marvelous power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now world-famed remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it his "CONSUMPTION CURE," but abandoned that name as too restrictive for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a remedy for Consumption, but for all Chronic Diseases of the Liver, Blood, and Lungs.

For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Chronic Nasal Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections, it is an efficient remedy.

Sold by Druggists, at $1.00, or Six Bottles for $5.00.

A Republican Trick Exposed.

Senator Hale will be interested in the details given in The New York World of the methods employed to get money from Republicans employed in the departments at Washington. Four years ago something like $26,000 was contributed by the clerks of the various departments for campaign purposes. This year no such large amount was expected, but still Republican politicians thought that the "hold over" Republican clerks ought to contribute something. But how to reach them without exciting the suspicion of the Democratic heads of departments or their fellow clerks was a problem. Circulars were prepared in effect "soliciting your financial aid" in paying the legitimate expenses of the campaign, and sent to a few well known Republican clerks, with the understanding that they would circulate them among their fellow clerks of the same political faith. There were very few responses to these circulars, the clerks evidently preferring to take no chances. Some Democratic officials, it is said, discovered the scheme, and it was forthwith abandoned. It was finally decided to appoint agents from among the faithful at Washington who should be authorized to receive subscriptions. They were instructed to proceed very carefully, but to use all diligence in disseminating the information among Republican clerks that subscriptions would be received by them, for which in return they would receive a novel receipt, which would not involve the holder in trouble with his Democratic superiors, but would be of inestimable value in the event of Republican success. The peculiarity of the receipt is that there is no name attached to it, simply a number. The names and corresponding numbers are kept in a little book which the agent guards with the utmost care. Should the Republicans win, the receipts will be filled out with the subscriber's name, and he will stand a good chance of reaping the reward of faithfulness to his party. In case of Democratic victory the tell tale books will be destroyed. All these facts were learned at first hand by a World reporter, who paid $5 as a department employe, and received a receipt which is printed by the newspaper in facsimile.—Springfield Republican.

Mr. Blaine's Last Flop.

Mr. Blaine has once more got himself into a position before the public from which not even a liberal use of the coward's argument, a lie, will rescue him. In The Citizen we have traced his crooked course through the whole controversy on trusts. He began by saying that trusts are private affairs with which nobody has a right to interfere. Driven from that absurd standpoint to another, and thence to another, he has at last come down to the assurance that if trusts are injurious to the country it is because some Democrats are involved in some trusts, from which he wants the halt, the maimed, the lame and the blind to infer that the Democratic party is responsible for trusts. As we have shown, in making this argument Mr. Blaine has conceded every honor to the Democracy. The party is resolved to abolish the iniquity of trusts, no matter who is hurt. It is not making war upon trusts because they are Republican, but because they are infamous. If Democrats are engaged in them, so much the worse for the Democrats. They ought to know better. But the concession that the Democratic party is fearless, unselfish and sincere in its antagonism to this form of robbery is the highest commendation that can be made. Mr. Blaine did not intend to commend, but to condemn. He came to curse the party, and lo! he hath blessed it altogether.—Brooklyn Citizen.

Gentlemen—Five years ago I was so unfortunate as to contract an extremely bad case of blood poison. My bones ached and my muscles began to swell and contract. I was under treatment of the physician from the inception of the disease until I found that he could do me no good. Then, through the advice of a friend I began taking S. S. S. Your medicine seemed to have an immediate effect. I took six bottles, and to-day am sound and well. MASON & HAMLIN

The cabinet organ was introduced in its present form by Mason & Hamlin in 1861. Other makers followed in the manufacture of these instruments, but the Mason & Hamlin Organs have always maintained their supremacy as the best in the world.

Mason & Hamlin offer, as demonstration of the unequalled excellence of their organs, the fact that at all of the great World's Exhibitions, since that of Paris, 1867, in competition with best makers of all countries, they have invariably taken the highest honors. Illustrated catalogues $22 TO $900. free.

ORGANS

Mason & Hamlin do not hesitate to make the extraordinary claim for their pianos, that they are superior to all others. They recognize the high excellence achieved by other leading makers in the art of piano building, but still claim superiority. This they attribute solely to the remarkable improvement introduced by them in the year 1882, and now known as the "Mason & Hamlin Piano Strings," by the use of which the greatest possible purity, power and refinement of tone, together with greatly increased capacity for standing in tune and other important advantages.
